WHAT IT IS

A game your audience plays against you

1

You make the calls

Pick the winners of real matches or races before they start. It takes a couple of minutes.

2

They try to beat you

Share one link. Followers join with a free profile and pick the same events.

3

The table settles it

Standings update as results land. Everyone can see who finished above you.

The twist: stars meet stats

Every pick shows a Cosmic Edge score that blends the form book with a personal cosmic reading. A talking point, not a tip.

About five minutes of your week

1

Create a battle

Choose the events for that week, up to 20 of them.

2

Share the link

Post the invite link or six-character code in your bio, stories, show notes or group chat.

3

Everyone picks

You and your audience lock in before the first event starts.

4

Results land

The table updates itself. Shout out whoever beat you, then start the rematch.

Scoring: Football 3 pts for a correct result. Racing 5 pts for the winner, 2 pts for second or third.

Works for whatever you cover

Football

Your weekend predictions against your followers. Specials for derbies, cup ties and transfer deadline day.

Horse racing

Pick the winners on the big card. Festival weeks become a running table: can anyone beat your tips?

Rugby

Weekend fixtures or a whole tournament. Your call on every match, theirs to beat.

Tennis

Grand Slam weeks as a daily battle. Who calls the upsets better, you or your audience?

One battle, three posts a week

1

Before: the challenge

Post your picks and the link. "Here are my calls. Think you know better?"

2

During: the table

Share the live standings as results come in. Who is above you right now?

3

After: the verdict

Name the followers who beat you, own your worst call, and post next week's link.

Run it all season and crown an overall champion of your audience. Weekly battles feed one season-long Oracle League table.

Copy, paste, post
